

Scrapbooks Forever July 2016 Newsletter

I can't believe half the year is gone and we are focusing hard on getting all our items on order for Christmas! No wonder there is that old saying "Christmas in July".

Classes:

As long as we are mentioning Christmas, there are only a few openings in my Christmas card making classes October 28 and 29. No, the individual classes have not been published yet. I am still waiting to have the items we are using in my hands before I announce just in case there is trouble getting them on time. If you are wanting to join us no matter what, go ahead and sign up now to avoid being disappointed.

August Classes are completely full. You can still get on the waiting list.

No new Sample Board programs this month. One is missing in action (hopefully in soon) and the other two did not have a July release. We will have them all featured in the August Newsletter.

Project of the month:

This month is a Honeypop honeycomb paper project. We have some new samples in the store and this project features the friend card with umbrella shaped honeycomb. This is posted on the website now under July 2016 in Monthly Project list.
